Three islands cruise

Full day tour – 8 hours

Half day tour – 4 hours

This cruise takes us to the Elaphite Islands to visit the three largest islands in the group: Koločep, Šipan and Lopud. Ruins of former patrician summer residences are scattered along the island's wooded slopes. A short stop will be made on the islands of Koločep, followed by a trip to Lopud. After short sightseeing of Lopud, we continue our cruise to port on island Šipan just 10 min by boat from Lopud. After lunch, time at leisure on Lopud before our return.

Light sportswear and swimwear recommended.

National park of Mljet

The most beautiful and the greenest of all Adriatic's islands, one of the most attractive and most interesting cultural–historical pearls of Mediterranean. Mljet is the preferred destination of couples in love, nature and history lovers and artists. Mljet has the feel of an island lost in the open sea. But do not let this landscape – mentioned in the stories about Odyssey and St. Paul, as well as Benedictine monks and the Mediterranean Seal – remain a secret for you.

Montenegro

Montenegro unique in many ways, and situated in the south of the Adriatic. It is rare opportunity to find, in such a small place, so much natural wealth, beauty, mild beaches, clear lakes, fast rivers and gorgeous mountains. In the morning you can wake up along the beautiful Adriatic coast, have lunch on the banks of Skadar Lake, and enjoy the evening walks in the Montenegrin mountains. Montenegro is a place that cannot leave you indifferent. Montenegro is not only an excellent choice for a holiday, Montenegro is full of other interesting things: history, culture, tradition, good weather conditions, clean air, beautiful nature, blue Adriatic Sea ... Everyone should visit Montenegro sometime. This little country is part of the Balkans and part of the Mediterranean, near Serbia, Bosnia, Croatia, Italy and Albania. Despite its small surface there are so many contrasts and so much natural beauty.

Island of Korcula

The island of Korcula and the peninsula of Peljesac were inhabited even in the Neolithic Age, i.e. six to eight thousand years ago. There are numerous archeological findings from that time, ranging from the first settlements, caves, tumuli, and old stone buildings (gradine) to the earliest tools such as stone axes, pieces of ceramics and flint knives. The most important localities dating from that time are: Vela Spilja (Big Cave) near Vela Luka, Gudnja and Spila on Peljesac, and Jakasova spilja (Jakas's Cave) near Zrnovo. There are also numerous tumuli and stone buildings, the earliest types of fortified settlements, using natural stone; they are most often situated on peaks and hills, providing a good view and difficult access for the possible invader. It would appear that the whole territory of Korcula and Peljesac was parcelled out according to zones of interest.

Island of Hvar

When we think of Hvar – we think about the island of heather, sunshine and crickets, the island of lavender, sage and wine and the island of rosemary and secluded coves.

Attractive in the summer just as in the winter, with pleasant Mediterranean climate, rich vegetation of palms, aloes, pine trees, laurel, rosemary and lavender and peaceful coves and islets filled with a multitude of pleasant scents. The name of the island is without doubt Greek in origin, from Pharos (lighthouse). From it the Romans derived the name Pharia . The Dalmatian Romans then derived from this Fara , and the newly settled Croats in the early Middle Ages changed this to Hvar , as the old Slavonic consonant f was subsumed by the consonant group hv. The Dalmatian Romans, under the influence of Croatian pronunciation in the medieval documents spelt the name as Quara or Quarra .
